FLORALA.

Florala, April 19 .- At a special meeting of the directors of the Covington County Fair Association, held last Thursday, Griffin Miller, a farmer, was selected to make a trip through this was here Friday. section for the purpose of arousing interest among the farmers. He will call on the farmers and explain the urge that they at once prepare to make exhibits this fall. Among other matters discussed at the meeting was opening day at the fair. It was decided to invite every singing society within a radius of 100 miles to attend the fair and compete for a beautiful silk banner and also to bring something to place on exhibition. The fair management will be better prepared this year than ever before to take care of live stock exhibits. Last year the poultry exhibits was a splendid one, but this year it is expected that there will be at least a thousand chickens on exhibit.

One of the most enjoyable social affairs of last week in this city was the entertainment given to the Sunday school class No. 5, of the M. E. church, by Miss Mary Doster, at her hospitable home on Fifth street. On the arrival of the guests they were met by Miss Doster and escorted into the parior, where tables were prepared and the fascinating game of rook was in progress. This game was indulged in until a late hour when delicious refreshments, which consisted of strawberries, whipped cream and cake. The hostess is famed as a maker of divinity fudge and the young people considered themselves highly favored when Miss Doster and Miss Emma Clements brought in trays friends here Friday morning. laden with this delicious candy. CAMP WALTON.

Camp Walton, April 19.-Fifty guests assembled at Mrs. Mayers's and in a body proceeded to the Indianola. where they found Mrs. Frances Pryor. in whose honor the surprise party was given. Although very much surprised, Mrs. Pryor welcomed her guests most cordially. And though having passed a very busy day, as a number of travelling men being detained by the high water were entertained at the Indianola in addition to the regular guests, Mrs. Pryor entertained the party most royally as she always does. The musicians were on time and had their instruments in fine shape, and played excellently. The leader of this little orchestra is Calvin Broxson, a boy, 14 years of age. He has never had any instructions, but plays entirely by ear and his talent is remarkable. He evidently loves his music, for when it was suggested that he sit near the pavilion inside the door, as the night was cool, he replied: "I don't feel the cold after I get to playing," and the way he handles his violin shows his affection for the instrument. Dancing was the order of the even-
